Throughout our nearly 6 years of marriage and sharing a home my wife has learned many things about me, but perhaps none more important than this: I'm an angry cleaner. I do not say that with any amount of pride. It's merely a confession. Maybe it's the thirteen thousand bobby pins Carol leaves around the house or the fact that I can't find the bottom of a hamper for my clothes to save my life, but whatever it is cleaning always seems to have the same effect on me: despair. Which makes a gift Quinn recently got from her Uncle Sock and Aunt Kate particularly ironic. They bought her a play broom and dustpan. And get this: she loves it!

Weird, right? I mean you think that watching her mother and me run around the house frantically putting everything in its rightful place, wiping down surfaces, and sweeping then steaming then mopping every floor would have had a negative effect, but Quinn is always more than ready to add a helping and a joyful hand. And it's not just with the cleaning. She thinks cooking is fun, too. (And between you and me, if I'm the angry cleaner, Carol might be considered a less than enthusiastic cook). But there is Quinn slaving over her kitchen set preparing cups of microwaved milk for her dollies... with a smile on her face. The kid loves it.

Which makes me wonder, what happened? When did sweeping floors and boiling water stop being joyful and start resembling agonizing work? Now for those of you joyful cleaners out there who just can't wait to get your hands in some rubber gloves and half your body in an oven, this devotion isn't for you. It's for the rest of us, because I think there is a lesson that needs to be learned. In a relationship where I try to teach Quinn everything she needs to know, in this case she is teaching me. Just because God ordered our lives full of work, does not mean that God intended that we shouldn't enjoy it. In fact, quite the opposite. God calls us to lives of work, and hopes that we can live and work in them with the enthusiasm of a 2 year old.

Don't believe me? The book of Ecclesiastes says, "So I saw that there is nothing better than that all should enjoy their work, for that is their lot;" (3:22). So often when we talk about "our lot" it is in negative terms. We talk about 'our lot' in terms of an abundance of stress and suffering coupled with a scarcity of time and rest. We never use the word enJOY. And yet that is to what the Bible calls us. The Bible calls us to enjoy our work and our lot.

And you know what I think that looks like? Play. Like a toddler who joyfully pushes dirt in circles and puts metal in her pretend microwave. It looks like kids who dress up like doctors and police officers and construction workers because what those people do looks like fun to them. May it look like fun to us again, too.

I may always have some "angry cleaner" tendencies, but I hope I can start taking lessons from the wisdom of the Bible and from Quinn. I hope that I may begin to find joy in my lot. And I hope that you do, too.

Opportunities to Give/Serve

LCLC Men's Service Retreat

On Friday, May 30 through Sunday, June 1 the men of Hope are headed to the shores of Lake Chautauqua Lutheran Center for a weekend of service at the camp a growing number of our youth enjoy each year. This camp, like many churches, could not operate without the generosity and volunteering of people like us. The projects we will tackle this year are ambitious, so we need all hands on deck to achieve what we hope to accomplish. Plans including the roofing of Cabin 9 and the renovation of the lodge's kitchen. The cost is $40/guy and will cover 3 meals on Saturday, breakfast on Sunday, and snacks and drinks for 2 nights, but please do not let finances stand in the way of your service that weekend. Contact PS to RSVP.

Clean Up Arcade Day!

On Saturday, May 17 teams of volunteers from throughout our area will gather at Hope Lutheran Church to be sent out to various projects in town. Hope will be getting a group together to complete one such project. Stay tuned for more details, but mark your calendars today.

Brother's Keeper, Inc. (Hope's newest outreach ministry) renovated the bathroom of a neighbor in need. Thanks to all who donated funds, supplies, and construction talents.

In weeks Jim and Isabelle will be married in Oklahoma, and just months after that Jim will begin seminary at Luther in St. Paul, Minnesota where he has received the Fund for Leaders Scholarship because of his hard work and potential in ministry. While we will miss him, we give thanks that God led him here and for the impact he and Isabelle made on our community in their time among us.

From Jim Vitale, Youth Director

“A Hopeful Farewell”

When I was six years old, dad accepted a job offer that required us to move. He had been living in Auburn, Massachusetts just outside Worcester. But this new job would require us to move to a town just outside Albany, New York. Honestly, it was the best decision my family could have made, but I was young and did not understand. All I knew was that I had to say goodbye to my friends. If my memory serves me, I threw quite a fit about moving. I really did not want to. But of course I had no choice. My parents tried to explain that it would be okay, but only time would allow me to feel that way.

Again, when I graduated fifth grade, my parents told me that they were sending me to private school. I knew it was coming, but it was still hard for me to come to grips with it. It's not that I did not want to go to private school. Both of my brothers had gone to the school, loved it, and turned out very well for themselves. For me, the struggle was that I was no longer going to be with the friends I had made the last five years. They were going on to middle school in one place, and I in another. Although I kept in contact with a few of them, for the most part, that moment was goodbye.

And once again, the same thing happened as I graduated High School. I had made some great friends, but we were all separating and heading off to different colleges. By this point, however, I had come to understand that life is made up of meetings and partings. We meet new friends, we pour our hearts out to them and then, eventually, we are forced to say goodbye.

So here I am again. I am about to graduate college and thus I will have to say goodbye to my best friends at Houghton, and of course, my family here at Hope. I am excited to move on to the next phase of my life, but in a way I am grieving the loss of a lot of people I love.

I know. It's not like anyone is dying. But saying goodbye to someone is, in a way, a form of death, because you do not know when you will see them again. It makes you wonder if it is even worth making friends to begin with. But the truth is, it is worth it. We pour ourselves out to each other because that is what Christ commanded. In doing so, we support each other, we help each other, we act as Christ toward each other. Even if I am certain that will only know someone for a few years, one year, a couple months, or even a week, it is always worth making friends, because we all need help living our lives. God gave us each other for a reason.

My time at Hope was relatively short, only a year, but it was the best church experience of my life. I have loved working closely with everyone, the youth especially. I have learned so much from you all, more than I could ever hope to have taught. In the pouring out of myself, I find that I have been poured into by both God and my Hope family. You have strengthened me. You have given me hope.

I know that we will all see each other in the kingdom that is coming, but of course I will come back and visit before such a time as that. I know I will be back, and I look forward to seeing where Hope Lutheran church goes over the next years. You are in my thoughts, and my prayers. Thank you for all you have done for me. Thank you for being who God has made you.

God bless you all.

Biblical Theme for the Summer

“Living in God’s Time”

“For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven.” –Ecclesiastes 3:1
 This summer campers will explore how Jesus is among us in the different “seasons” of our lives by exploring the Church Year. Campers will learn how Jesus is revealed in Advent, Christmas, Lent, Easter, and Pentecost and what that means for daily life. The theme will challenge campers to contrast the normal structure of contemporary life, characterized by busyness and status, with God’s kingdom of “now but not yet” which is characterized by love, grace, compassion, and hope in what is yet to come.

Every LCLC Program Includes:

- Interactive Bible Studies
- Unique Games
- Sailing and Boating
- Great Food
- Creative Worship
- Rousing Campfires
- Nature Studies
- Group Challenge Activities
- Friendly Staff
- Arts & Crafts
- Gaga Ball!
- Bouldering Wall

*Descriptions of all the camp programs can be found within the camp’s brochure on the shelf in the parish hall.

Hope is committed to sending to camp any one who wants to go.

Education

Confirmation

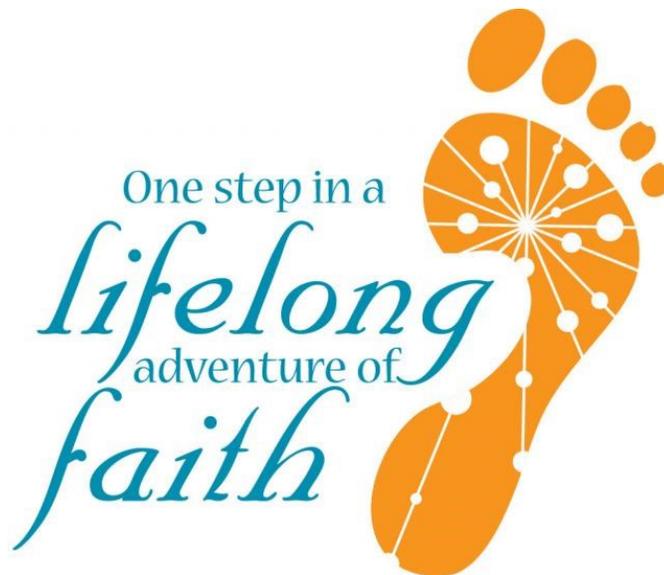

The next confirmation class will take place on Wednesdays, May 7 & 14 from 7-8pm. Those will be the final confirmation classes of the 2013-2014 confirmation year. All sermon notes and make up assignments are do to Pastor Shawn by the Sunday before confirmation, May 11.

Confirmation Celebration

Five of our ninth graders will celebrate their confirmation this year on Sunday, May 18 at the 10:30am worship service. For three years these disciples of Christ have spent Wednesday nights and Sunday mornings with Pastor Shawn studying their faith and making it their own. On Sunday, May 18 they will affirm their baptisms as we recognize their entrance into the next phase of their Christian pilgrimage. Help us celebrate their achievement with your prayer and presence at worship on Sunday, May 18. (A reception will proceed the worship at 10:00am).

Animate Faith: Adult Discussion Around Matters of Faith

On the Sundays of Easter (yes, Easter is actually a season with 7 Sundays!) Pastor will be leading an adult class on matters of faith. With the help of short clips from leading theologians we will discuss God, Religion, Jesus, Salvation, the Cross, the Bible, and the Church. Each topic will have a Sunday between Sunday, April 27 and Sunday, June 8. Each class will function independently, but all are encouraged to engage these conversations each week.

Art & Spirituality Classes Continue

Pastor Zimmerman's art and spirituality worship will continue through the Monday evenings of May. Participants are gathering to deepen their understanding of God and personal faithfulness as they exercise their creative gifts.

Direct Giving

The finance and stewardship committees of Hope are pleased to announce the introduction of an electronic option for making regular options. Contributions can now be debited automatically from your checking or savings account. The new electronic giving program offers convenience for you in your spiritual practice of giving as it attempts to address the changing way we handle money today. Recurring debits can be tailored to your specific request in both amount and occurrence (weekly, bi-monthly, monthly, yearly, etc.)

We recognize that summers in Western New York are often packed with as many trips, events, and engagements as the weather permits. If you are one of those families that scarcely feels home on the weekend let alone available to worship at Hope, we hope you will consider enrolling in Hope's New Simply Giving Program. Using the form attached you can sign up for the convenience of direct giving on a schedule that works for you and your budget. Regardless of where you are or the cash you have in your wallet, your $25, $50, or $100 weekly gift can be sent to Hope and put to work on the mission we share. If you have questions or want more information on how Simply Giving works, please contact Pastor Shawn or the Church Office. Thank you for your continued giving and for considering this program as a new way for your family to give.

In everything there is hope.
